The Psion

2E Gamma Playtest, Revised V0.1

A psion's mind has evolved to shape reality with the power of thought alone.

Play Style: The psion is a flexible, but also complex class, aimed at players who enjoy digging into the available options. While you can fill the classic caster role of controlling the battlefield and blasting enemies, a psion can also act as support and even melee combatant depending on how you pick your talents and powers.

Psionics are separated into six disciplines:

Clairsentience (Wisdom) — Perceive things, transcending both space and time

Metacreation (Intelligence) — Impose your imagination onto reality

Energenesis (Dexterity) — Create and control energies, and elements

Somamorphosis (Constitution) — Change the body of living creatures

Telekinesis (Strength) — Physically move creatures and objects

Telepathy (Charisma) — Connect to other minds and control them

Your access to these disciplines is decided by your talent choices, which will give each psion a unique set of abilities.

Mechanically, a psion's capacity to shape reality before they succumb to exhaustion is measured in power points. Each of your powers has a base cost to manifest it, but you can also flexibly expend more points to augment a power for extra effects.

Ability Scores: As listed above, each discipline is based on a different ability score, which you need to take into consideration when assigning stats.

Kin: In general, psionics are rare, but can manifest among any kin. If psionics are more common, it could become apparent over the course of a campaign that different kin have an affinity for different disciplines. As a created race, half-orcs could be driven towards somamorphosis. Gnomes could be masters of metacreation; dragonborn focus on energenesis.

Backgrounds: A freed galley slave has discovered their powers when the ship sank; a carnie trickster combines mental ability and sleight of hand for entertainment and profit; an enlightened royal heir's family secretly selects spouses for psionic ability; an ascetic hermit from the Seawall chose a path of physical deprivation to strengthen their mental powers.

Icons: Of the icons in the Core Book, the Prince of Shadows is the most likely to experiment with purely mental powers that don't easily show the nature of the user like a big spellbook or a holy symbol would. It's also possible that your Dragon Empire has a newly created icon to represent psionics. This icon could be a past icon looking for a comeback. It could also be that psionics are a new, strange power that each icon wants to use to their advantage. Or it could be fueled by strange beings outside of this reality.

<<Begin Sidebar>>

Setting considerations: The Dragon Empire does not have an established place for psionics. However, it gives the GM and the psion player broad creative license to fill in the blanks. Psionics always had a more pulp or science fiction flavor to them, unlike the "native to fantasy" divine and arcane powers. Maybe more modern elements have space in your campaign. If you would rather play down the theme and underline the strangeness of psionic powers, keep them at the fringes, possessed by visitors from other planes and aberrant monsters lurking in dark dimensions. You could even make the psion PC a unique occurrence in their age, similar to the occultist.

If psionics are rare, a psion PC is likely self-taught, and may not be able to explain their strange powers. But even if psionics are more common, they are less likely to be taught in an academic setting like arcane magic is. Psions are likely to be lonely wanderers who occasionally train a disciple, gathering only in secluded monasteries or secret societies.

Gear

Some psions take pride in relying entirely on their mental abilities and don't carry around much, creating even mundane items with their powers when needed. Others see mental powers more as an enhancement and carry normal weapons and armor.

If psionics can be practiced in the open, a psion might dress in garish gear adorned with crystals, pyramids and eye symbols, or wear elaborate headpieces like tiaras and turbans. If, on the other hand, psionics are unknown or even persecuted, a psion will more likely try to pass off as an arcane spellcaster or even someone completely mundane.

You start with 25 gp in your pockets, or roll 1d6 x 10 gp if you're the gambling type.

Armor

While psionic powers aren't hindered by armor directly, carrying heavy loads all day tires the body, which also tires the mind. Therefore psions usually rely on their powers to protect themselves from harm instead.

| Type | Base AC | Attack Penalty |
|---|---|---|
| None | 10 | — |
| Light | 10 | — |
| Heavy | 11 | -2 |
| Shield | +1 | — |

Weapons

Most psions lack the training to use heavier weaponry. Those who wish to fight in melee often conjure weapons with their mind to fight with.

Melee Weapons

| Size | One-Handed | Two-Handed |
|---|---|---|
| Small | 1d4 knife | 1d6 staff |
| Light or Simple | 1d6 short sword, rapier | 1d8 spear |
| Heavy or Martial | 1d8 (-2) longsword, scimitar | 1d10 (-2) greatsword |

Ranged Weapons

| Size | Thrown | Crossbow | Bow |
|---|---|---|---|
| Small | 1d4 dagger | 1d4 hand crossbow | — |
| Light or Simple | 1d6 javelin, axe | 1d6 light crossbow | 1d6 shortbow |
| Heavy | — | 1d8 (-2) heavy crossbow | 1d8 (-3) longbow |

Class Features

Psionic Disciplines

As a psion, each discipline can be thought of as a sub-class. You only have access to the powers of a discipline if you take at least one of its associated talents. You start with three talents, and choose a fourth talent at 6th level.

If you choose one talent from a discipline, you gain the initiate rank in it. With two, you are an adept. With three or four, you are a master. See each discipline's chapter for the initiate, adept and master benefits granted by each discipline.

Psionic Defenses

For each talent you have in the Energenesis, Somamorphosis and Telekinesis disciplines, add +1 to PD. For each talent you have in the Clairsentience, Metacreation and Telepathy disciplines, add +1 to MD.

Psionic Powers

Psionic powers are the manifestations of your conscience.

You start with the following powers:

- One power for each of your chosen talents, from the associated discipline
- One power to freely choose from any discipline you have access to
- The two bonus powers for each of your chosen disciplines

You gain more powers as you level up, as per the level advancement table.

You can switch psionic powers when you gain a level.

Power Points and Manifesting Powers

You can manifest your psionic powers at-will. However, manifesting a power is mentally taxing, which is represented by a limited resource called psionic power points (PP).

See the level progression table for how many power points you have available. You regain all expended power points on a quick rest.

Each power has a fixed base power point cost that you pay for manifesting it. This cost can be zero (for combat powers that are comparable to at-will spells of other classes).

Augmenting Powers

Manifesting a power by paying its base cost grants you its base effect, but most powers allow you to invest more points for a stronger effect.

Usually these augmentations are listed below what they augment, such as targets or a hit. Augmentations either have a fixed cost or list a range of PP you can spend on them. You can use multiple augments at once, as long as you have enough PP to pay for them.

You can only use an augment once when you manifest a power, unless the augment is marked as “repeatable”. Cost reductions apply to repeatable augments only once.

When an augmentation is a sub-entry under a hit, you can decide you augment the power after you know whether it was a hit or miss.

A number of powers let you augment the effect to increase the level. This allows you to manifest some powers with effects beyond 10th level. If there is no entry for levels past 10, multiply the 10th level effect (damage, healing) by 1.25 for 11th level, 1.6 for 12th level, and 2 for 13th level. You can’t increase past that.

Some augmentations mention a different discipline, such as “with Telepathy”. In this case, you can only use the augment if you have access to that discipline through your talent choices.

Implements

Psions use crystals as implements. Mechanically, they work like wands or holy symbols (+1 to attack and damage with psionic powers), and they can have similar enchantments. The main difference is that crystals only work for psionic classes.

Some psionic powers summon or create weapons. As long as you are wielding the weapon, you can use the attack and damage bonus from your crystal with it.

Your implement also adds its attack and damage bonus to the constructs you create with the Metacreation discipline.

Hit point threshold

Many powers have a stronger effect when cast against enemies whose current hit point total is at or below a certain number, the hit point “threshold”. The number is as below.

1st level: Target with 40 hp or fewer
2nd level: Target with 52 hp or fewer
3rd level: Target with 68 hp or fewer
4th level: Target with 80 hp or fewer
5th level: Target with 104 hp or fewer
6th level: Target with 132 hp or fewer
7th level: Target with 160 hp or fewer
8th level: Target with 208 hp or fewer
9th level: Target with 268 hp or fewer
10th level: Target with 320 hp or fewer

Psionic Summoning Rules

Use the rules below for summoning and controlling creatures as a Psion.

- See the stat block of each summoned creature for its stats, abilities and available actions.
- The summoned creature appears next to you.
- A summoned creature fights for you until the end of the battle or until it drops to 0 hit points. At 0 hp, it is removed from the battle.
- If you are nearby the creature, or a group of summoned mooks, you can spend a quick action to control it. When you control the creature, it can take a standard action, move action and quick action (if applicable). If you don’t spend a quick action to control the creature, it simply doesn’t take actions.
- Summoned creatures benefit from the escalation die.
- Summoned creatures don’t benefit from magical items you are wearing, unless that item specifically mentions summoned creatures.
- The summoned creature counts as an ally.

- Healing abilities can be used on your summoned creatures to let them heal using your recoveries and your recovery roll. However, you can choose to not heal the creature when given the opportunity. (Skip it when using an ability that heals a random ally.)
- You can dismiss the creature as a quick action.

Note that these rules are somewhat different from the summoning rules in other 13th Age publications. They are meant to simplify as much as possible.

Psion Class Feats

Altruist

Adventurer feat: For powers with an augment that lets you target an ally instead for 1 PP, reduce that augment cost to zero.

Godmind

Adventurer feat: Your psionic powers are opening your mind to give a direct connection to the divine realm. You can use holy symbols as implements, and you can deal holy damage with your psionic powers instead of their usual damage type.

Champion feat: Undead are vulnerable to your psionic attacks.

Power Reabsorption

Adventurer feat: Once per turn, when you miss all attack rolls with a psionic power you spent at least 1 PP on, you can forgo all other miss effects and regain 1 PP you spent instead.

Champion feat: As per adventurer feat, but regain up to 2 PP you spent.

Wave Pattern

Adventurer feat: When you use a psionic power to affect a mook with a temporary condition other than ongoing damage, you can spend 2 PP to affect the entire group of mooks. The mooks roll a single save for the entire group against the effect.

Clairsentience

Clairsentience is the ability to perceive things, transcending both space and time. While Clairsentience powers don't have direct damage application, they can help you predict enemy movement and therefore increase your attacks and defenses. Their strong point is scouting and information gathering, which smart psions can turn into a tactical advantage later.

Clairsentience powers are based on Wisdom.

Depending on your rank in this discipline, you gain the benefits below:

| Clairsentience | Initiate | Adept | Master |
|---|---|---|---|
| Clairsentience Powers (choose) | 1 | 2 | 3 |
| Bonus Powers | Locate Presence, Sudden | As initiate | As initiate |

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | Insight | | |
| Benefits | Access to Clairsentience powers | As initiateChoose one augment of one Clairsentience power to reduce its cost by 1 (can reduce to zero).Gain a +2 bonus to opportunity attack rolls. | As initiate + adeptGain a second augment cost reduction.Roll twice for initiative and take the better result. |
| Defense bonus | MD +1 | MD +2 | MD +3 |

Champion feat: If you are an initiate, gain the adept benefit. If you are an adept, gain the master benefit.

Clairsentience Talents

Eternally Prepared

When your initiative roll is a natural even roll, you get a single quick action that you can use before regular initiative starts.

Adventurer feat: You can spend 1 PP to reroll your initiative once.

Champion feat: You now get a move action instead.

Epic feat: You now get a standard action instead. However, this action cannot be used for attacks.

Hyper-evolved Senses

Choose one sense, such as vision, hearing, or smell. You have developed that sense way beyond the norm for your kin, and can compete with the best in all of nature. You gain five points in a background that describes the ability. Maybe you can see the face of a coin someone is holding up across a mountain valley. Maybe you can identify each ant in a hill by the clattering of its mandibles.

Adventurer feat: Choose a second sense to boost with a different background.

Champion feat: Choose a third sense.

Epic feat: Increase all backgrounds gained from this talent to seven.

Precise Targeting

You can spend power points to increase the accuracy of your powers. After you know whether a power would have hit against an enemy defense or not, you can spend up to 3 power points to gain a +1 bonus to the attack roll per point spent.

Adventurer feat: You can now spend up to 5 points.

Champion feat: As per adventurer feat. Also increase the bonus to +2.

Epic feat: As per champion feat. You can now spend any number of power points.

Preemptive Hindsight

You see potential future outcomes of your actions, allowing you to act with hindsight before it happens. Once per arc per Wisdom modifier, you can reroll one skill check after knowing whether the roll would succeed or not.

Adventurer feat: Instead of rerolling, you can set the roll as a natural 7.

Champion feat: As adventurer feat, but set the roll as natural 10.

Epic feat: As per champion feat, but set the roll as natural 13.

Clairsentience Bonus Powers

Locate Presence (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 0 PP

Effect: Specify an object, such as coins, a substance, such as water, or creature, such as orcs. If what you are looking for is in the nearby area, you get a mental image of the direction and location where you can find it.

> Augment: 1 PP — Extend the search radius to far away; 2 PP — Really far away (about a mile)
> 1 PP — You can search for a specific object or person you are familiar with.

Sudden Insight (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Free action

Base cost: 1 PP

Target: You

> Augment: 1 PP — Target a nearby ally instead

Trigger: The target makes a Wisdom-based skill check.

Effect: Add 1d6 to the roll.

1st Level Clairsentience Powers

Analysis (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 1 PP

Effect: Discern information about an object. This spell allows you to ask a question about the object that the GM will answer, such as “Is this drink poisoned?” or “What is the enchantment on this sword?”

> Augment: 1 PP — Analyze a room-sized area with questions such as “Are there any secret doors?”

Augury (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 1 PP

Effect: Name two possible actions, such as a choice between two doors to open, or whether to drink from the magic fountain or not. The power gives you a mental idea of which option is more favorable to you, without any details.

> Augment: 1 PP — Receive a mental image of a possible consequence of each choice (like a vision of your own death by drinking from the poisoned fountain).

Defensive Clarity (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Interrupt action

Base cost: 1 PP

Trigger: You are hit by an attack.

Augment: 1 PP — Trigger this power when a nearby ally is attacked.

Effect: Add 1d6 to the attacked defense.

1 PP — Deal lightning damage (with Energenesis) or psychic damage (with Telepathy) to the attacker equal to the d6 roll multiplied by your level.

1 PP — Pop free from the attacker after the attack (with Telekinesis).

Offensive Clarity (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Free action

Base cost: 1 PP

Trigger: You make an attack.

Augment: 1 PP — Trigger this power when a nearby ally attacks.

Effect: Add 1d6 to the attack roll.

1 PP — Deal lightning damage (with Energenesis) or psychic damage (with Telepathy) to one target equal to the d6 roll multiplied by your level.

1 PP — Pop free from the target after the attack (with Telekinesis).

Prescient Shot (Clairsentience)

Melee or ranged power; At-will

Special: You must wield a melee or ranged weapon to use this power. You can use the weapon without the attack penalty from your class.

Base cost: 0 PP

Target: One enemy you are engaged (melee) with or one nearby enemy (ranged)

Attack: Wisdom + Level vs. AC

Augment: 2 PP — Target MD instead of AC

Hit: WEAPON + Wisdom damage

Augment: 3 PP — Add 1d6 psychic damage per level (repeatable)

Miss: Damage equal to your level + Wisdom modifier (x2 at 5th level; x4 at 8th)

Sixth Sense (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 1 PP

Target: You

Augment: Variable — Add a nearby ally per PP spent

Effect: You have a heightened sense of potential dangers such as traps and lurking monsters. You receive a short vision of it before it happens. The next time you would make a skill check to either notice a danger or avoid it, you have advantage on the roll. This ends the effect. The effect also ends with the next battle.

3rd Level Clairsentience Powers

Clairvoyance (Clairsentience)

Ranged power; At-will

Base cost: 2 PP

Target: You

Augment: 1 PP — Target a nearby ally

Effect: Close your eyes and choose a nearby or far away location. You get a view of the location, either as if you're standing there or hovering over it (your choice). You don't need direct line of sight, you can just choose a general direction. You can change the angle and slowly move around.

The vision lasts as long as you concentrate and keep your eyes closed. You cannot take other actions while concentrating.

A visual image of an eye appears in the location where you scry, so a skill check may be required to not be noticed.

Augment: Variable — Add another sense per PP spent, such as sound or smell.

1 PP — Scry on any location you are familiar with.

Enemy Sense (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 1 PP

Target: One nearby enemy

Attack: Wisdom + Level vs. MD

Hit: Ask the GM one question about the target's combat capabilities per point of Wisdom modifier. The GM will answer in in-game terms, not game mechanics. For example, you could learn that the creature has a deadly poison stinger in its tail, but not how much damage it deals exactly. The target is also vulnerable to your attacks (save ends).

Augment: 1 PP — The target has a penalty to the save equal to your Wisdom modifier.

Mental Marksman (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 1-3 PP

Target: A nearby or far away enemy

Effect: Increase your critical range against the target by 1 per PP spent until the end of the battle.

Augment: 1 PP — Ignore any resistances the target has.

Night Watch (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will

Base cost: 1 PP

Target: You

Augment: 1 PP — Target a nearby ally instead

Effect: You create the hovering image of an eye, which persists until the next morning. If the eye perceives any impending danger, the target will receive a vision of what it sees. They receive these visions even while asleep, and can distinguish them from dreams.

Object Reading (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will

Base cost: 1-3 PP

Target: One object you touch

Effect: You read the "memory" of the object, accumulated psychic impressions left by their previous owners or by events around it. You gain a piece of information per PP spent, which can be an image, a sound, a short scene or a name.

> Augment: 1 PP — Create a visual representation of the memory that can be seen by others (with Metacreation).

5th Level Clairsentience Powers

Battle Mind (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 4 PP

Target: You

Effect: You meditate to open your mind to the flow of battle. Until the end of the battle, you can use your Wisdom modifier with attack and damage for melee attacks, you increase your critical range with melee attacks by your Wisdom modifier, and you can gain a +2 bonus to AC and PD.

Sense Iconic Affiliation (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 1 PP

Effect: You gain a sense of whether creatures or objects in your visual range have an affiliation to an icon. For example, a simple commoner in the Empire might have a weak affiliation to the Emperor or the Priestess. Meanwhile, a phylactery of the Lich King would radiate an aura so strong it feels like staring into the sun.

> Augment: 1 PP — Choose an icon and create a longer sensory sensibility. For example, this could warn you of the presence of undead while delving deeper into a dungeon.

Wall Hack (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 1 PP

Target: You

> Augment: 1 PP — Target a nearby ally instead

Effect: You perceive all nearby and far away creatures as glowing outlines, even if they are obstructed from normal view by walls or other objects. The effect lasts until the end of the scene or battle.

7th Level Clairsentience Powers

Future Sight (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 1 PP

Target: You

Effect: You see all possible futures. This is very mentally taxing, and whenever you would roll a d20 (attack, save, skill check, disengage, death save ...), roll two dice and take the lower one. However, you can spend 1 PP on each roll to choose the die instead. In the same way, enemies roll two d20s on attacks against you and choose the die, but if you spend 1 PP, you choose the die instead. This effect lasts until the end of the battle, or until you end it as a free action.

Psionic True Sight (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 2 PP

Target: You

Effect: Until the end of the battle or scene, you gain the ability to see all things as they actually are. You see through normal and magical darkness, notice secret doors hidden by magic, see the exact locations of creatures or objects under blur or displacement effects, see invisible creatures or objects normally, see through illusions, and see the true form of polymorphed, changed, or transmuted things. True seeing, however, does not penetrate solid objects.

Augment: 2 PP — Extend the effect until the next quick rest.

Ring of Precognition (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Quick action

Base cost: 1 PP per target

Target: You and / or nearby allies

Effect: Each target gains a short flash of insight into their battle fortune. At the start of each target's next turn, they roll a d20, which will be the natural roll of their first attack roll that turn (if they choose to attack).

Augment: 2 PP per target — Each target rolls two dice instead and chooses one.

9th Level Clairsentience Powers

Immaculate Insight (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will; Free action

Base cost: 9 PP, reduced by the escalation die

Target: You

Augment: 1 PP — Target a nearby ally instead

Trigger: The target makes an attack.

Effect: The attack is a critical hit.

Omniscience (Clairsentience)

Close-quarters power; At-will

Base cost: 5 PP

Target: You

Effect: Gain a 5-point "omniscience" background until the next quick rest. You have access to all knowledge in the universe.

Augment: 1 PP — Increase the background by 1 (repeatable).

Energenesis

Energenesis is the ability to create and control energy and elements. Its powers are based on Dexterity. Energenesis powers are very useful for blasting enemies with raw elements. They also provide some defenses by throwing up shields.

Depending on your rank in this discipline, you gain the benefits as per the table below:

| Energenesis | Initiate | Adept | Master |
|---|---|---|---|
| Energenesis Powers (choose) | 1 | 2 | 3 |
| Bonus Powers | Minor Manifestation, Energize | As initiate | As initiate |
| Benefits | Access to Energenesis powers | As initiateChoose one augment of one Energenesis power to reduce its cost by 1 (can reduce to zero).Choose cold, fire, lightning or thunder. Gain resist 14+ for that element. | As initiate + adeptGain a second augment cost reduction.Gain all four resistances. |
| Defense bonus | PD +1 | PD +2 | PD +3 |

Champion feat: If you are an initiate, gain the adept benefit. If you are an adept, gain the master benefit.

Energenesis Talents

Elemental Absorption

Up to once per round, when an enemy makes an attack against you that uses a damage type you have resistance against, you can spend a recovery to heal as a free action.

Adventurer feat: Increase any resistances you have by 2.

Champion feat: When you spend a recovery this way, also gain a +2 bonus to your next attack roll.

Epic feat: Up to once per round, when you are attacked this way, you regain a power point.

Elemental Breach

Increase your critical range with energenesis powers by 1. When you manifest an augmented energenesis power, increase your critical range by 2 instead.

Adventurer feat: Also gain the bonus when manifesting powers of other disciplines.

Champion feat: Once per battle, when you score a critical hit with an Energenesis power, you can reroll the entire damage roll once and keep the second result.

Epic feat: You can spend PP to increase the critical range by 1 per PP after you know the roll result.

Explosive Manifestation

When you augment an energenesis power, its damage dice become exploding dice — reroll any dice that show up as maximum, and add the reroll to the total. Keep rerolling as long as you get the maximum.

Adventurer feat: Apply this talent to other disciplines too.

Metacreation

Metacreation is the ability to create things out of thin air, from illusions to physical objects. Its powers are based on Intelligence. Metacreation powers can deceive your opponents with illusions. They can also create various objects, and even make constructs that fight for you.

Depending on your rank in this discipline, you gain the benefits as per the table below:

| Metacreation | Initiate | Adept | Master |
|---|---|---|---|
| Metacreation Powers (choose) | 1 | 2 | 3 |
| Bonus Powers | Mental Figment, Creative Outburst | As initiate | As initiate |
| Benefits | Access to Metacreation powers | As initiateChoose one augment of one Metacreation power to reduce its cost by 1 (can reduce to zero).Increase the hit points of your psionic creations by twice your level. | As initiate + adeptGain a second augment cost reduction.You have advantage on skill checks to convince people your creations are real. |
| Defense bonus | MD +1 | MD +2 | MD +3 |

Champion feat: If you are an initiate, gain the adept benefit. If you are an adept, gain the master benefit.

Metacreation Talents

Awakened Creation

You can imbue a crystal with consciousness. Embedding this crystal into your creation gives it basic consciousness that allows them to think for itself and even speak. The construct no longer requires your actions to control it. The crystal gives the construct a +1 bonus to attack and damage per tier, like a psionic implement. If a construct gets destroyed, you can retrieve the crystal to embed it again. Give the crystal a 3 point background to represent its acquired experience and skill set.

Adventurer feat: You can create up to one such crystal per level.

Champion feat: As long as the awakened creation is nearby, both you and the creation gain a +1 bonus to saves.

Epic feat: You can embed your own consciousness into a crystal, to extend your lifespan beyond the limits of your mortal body.

Combat Creation

Your psionic constructs gain a +2 bonus to their critical range. When something you create with a metacreation power makes an attack, you can spend 1 PP to add 1d6 to the roll.

Adventurer feat: When something you create with a metacreation power takes damage, reduce that damage by your level.

Champion feat: When you score a critical hit with a Metacreation power or a psionic construct, you deal 5 ongoing acid damage per PP spent on the power.

Epic feat: Whenever you deal damage with a metacreation power, including a summoned creation, reroll any natural 1s on the damage dice.

Durable Creation

You can keep one item or creature you create with your psionic powers around. This item is not destroyed at the end of battle. It stays around until your next full heal-up.

Adventurer feat: Items you create with your psionic powers have double hit points.

Champion feat: When using a recovery to heal, also heal one psionic creation for the same amount.

Epic feat: You can keep a second item or creature.

Unbound Mind

Increase your maximum power points by 1. At fifth level, increase the bonus to 2. At 8th level, increase to 3.

Adventurer feat: You can choose one of your psionic powers from any discipline, regardless of talent choices.

If you control the clone as a quick action, it can only make basic attacks. However, if you spend a standard action to control it, you can use its actions to manifest psionic powers, using your own power points.

You can create the clone outside of battle. If not destroyed, the clone remains until the next quick rest.

Augment: 1 PP — Create a mental link that allows you to control the clone at any distance (with Telepathy).

9th Level Metacreation Powers

Enemy Clone (Metacreation)

Ranged power; At-will

Base cost: 2 PP

Target: A nearby or far away mook

Augment: 1/2 PP — Target two / three mooks in a group

3/5/8 PP — Target one normal / double / triple-strength enemy instead

Effect: You create a clone of the target that fights on your side, with the same stats and abilities, but half hit point total. Use the summoning rules in the class features chapter for details.

Reality Reconfiguration (Metacreation)

Ranged power; At-will

Base cost: 5 PP

Effect: You twist, mold, and reshape the nearby physical environment in any way you like. For example, you can create a bridge, warp a tunnel, raise a wall, or shoot up pillars. When you manifest this power in combat, the changes are forceful but rough, and require a standard action for each change. More finely crafted rearrangements require longer concentration. While this power is not a direct attack, it can be used to put enemies into danger, such as by dropping the bridge they are standing on into the lava beneath. In that case, targets can avoid the danger with a successful save. The effect is semi-permanent. Outrageous and unnatural changes to the environment will fade over the next few days as reality heals itself.

Augment: 3 PP — Saves against the effect are hard saves (16+).

Somamorphosis

Somamorphosis is the ability to transform your own body, be it for healing or taking other shapes. Its powers are based on Constitution.

Somamorphosis powers enhance your body, making you tougher, healing you, and even turning your body itself into a weapon. They can also do the opposite, warping your opponents to weaken them.

Depending on your rank in this discipline, you gain the benefits below:

| Somamorphosis | Initiate | Adept | Master |
|---|---|---|---|
| Somamorphosis Powers (choose) | 1 | 2 | 3 |
| Bonus Powers | Body Modification, Increase Toughness | As initiate | As initiate |
| Benefits | Access to Somamorphosis powers | As initiate.Choose one augment of one Somamorphosis power to reduce its cost by 1 (can reduce to zero).Increase your base hit points to 7. | As initiate + adept.Gain a second augment cost reduction.Gain a bonus recovery. |
| Defense bonus | PD +1 | PD +2 | PD +3 |

Champion feat: If you are an initiate, gain the adept benefit. If you are an adept, gain the master benefit.

Somamorphosis Talents

Boosted Health

Increase your recovery dice by one step to d8s.

Adventurer feat: If you don't like the result of a recovery roll, you can spend a PP to reroll the entire result and add an additional die (5th level: two dice; 8th level: four dice).

Champion feat: Gain a +2 bonus to death saves, and you only die after gaining six skulls.

Epic feat: When granting a recovery to yourself via psionic powers, increase your recovery dice to d10s.

Self-Cannibalization

You sacrifice your physical health to regain mental strength.

Once per battle, when you rally, you can choose to spend a recovery without healing to regain power points equal to half your level (rounded down).

Adventurer feat: You can now use this talent as a quick action instead of as part of a rally (still 1/battle).

Champion feat: Once per arc, you can choose to gain a skull in addition to spending the recovery to regain power points equal to your level instead.

Epic feat: Roll a hard save (16+). If you succeed, you don't lose the recovery.

Shapeshifter's Vitality

Whenever you target yourself with a psionic power, gain temporary hit points equal to your level for each power point spent on the base cost.

Adventurer feat: You now gain temporary hit points for power points spent on augments too..

Champion feat: When you save against a condition, gain a bonus to the save equal to the number of PP you spend on powers targeting yourself.

Epic feat: When targeting yourself with an augmented psionic power, reduce the overall PP cost by 1.

Stretchable Form

Your body is highly flexible and can be stretched and squished like rubber. While your overall body mass stays the same, you can stretch to several times your height or squeeze through narrow passages. You still hurt normally when enemies aggressively hack at you with claws or weapons, but you are much more resilient to environmental damage like falling.

You can do stunts like reaching for the key through the bars of a prison cell, using your stretched arms to swing across a chasm, or bouncing down a flight of stairs like a ball. Normally this does not require a skill check, but the GM can require one if you attempt something very tricky or ridiculous.

Adventurer feat: Reduce physical damage you take by your level (you still take at least 1 damage).

Champion feat: You can make melee attacks against any nearby enemy without engaging them at a -2 penalty.

Epic feat: You can also adjust your skin color to the environment, allowing you to visibly meld into walls or mimic objects.

The shape is normally a generic member of that species, although you can try to appear as a specific individual with a hard skill check.

In your new form, you retain your mental abilities, initiative, basic attack bonuses and defense stats. Unless you choose a humanoid form, you likely can't use armor and weapons made for your kin. In your new form, you can gain one or more of the following:

Telekinesis

Telekinesis is the ability to move yourself and other objects. Its powers are based on Strength. Telekinesis is all about pushing and pulling to move objects in the physical realm. It can enhance your fighting capabilities by making you faster. Offensively, it's all about throwing large and sharp objects at your enemies.

Depending on your rank in this discipline, you gain the benefits below:

| Telekinesis | Initiate | Adept | Master |
|---|---|---|---|
| Telekinesis Powers (choose) | 1 | 2 | 3 |
| Bonus Powers | Minor Telekinesis, Extra Push | As initiate | As initiate |
| Benefits | Access to Telekinesis powers | As initiateChoose one augment of one Telekinesis power to reduce its cost by 1 (can reduce to zero).Gain a +2 bonus to disengage checks. | As initiate + adeptGain a second augment cost reduction.Gain advantage on skill checks to move objects with psionic powers. |
| Defense bonus | PD +1 | PD +2 | PD +3 |

Champion feat: If you are an initiate, gain the adept benefit. If you are an adept, gain the master benefit.

<<Begin sidebar>>

This discipline is based on Strength, so you might be under the impression that its practitioners are big and muscular. You'd be surprised to find that they are often rather lithe and skinny. Their raw physical power comes from enhancing the natural strength of their muscles with raw force conjured from willpower, and you will find them go toe to toe with people who are much larger.

So rather than natural strength being the source of their psionic power, their physical strength is an expression of psionic ability.

<<End sidebar>>

Adventurer feat: As long as you are conscious, you no longer take falling damage, regardless of height.

Champion feat: You move unhindered at normal speeds over any terrain and in any direction. For example, you can run up walls vertically.

Epic feat: Your movement can't be intercepted.

Epic feat: For you, there is no such thing as "far away" on the battlefield any more, everything is nearby.

While the rules writeup is focused on combat use, powers like Kinetic Push have plenty of non-combat applications too. Need to block a passage? Push a large boulder into the way. There's also plenty of utility in pushing enemies over ledges and the like. GMs should grant pushed targets a save to grab a hold and avoid plummeting to their demise.

Hit: You dump heavy objects from the surrounding area onto the target until it is covered. It takes 2d4 x 10 damage. Creatures engaged with the target must succeed at a save or take twice your level in damage. When buried under the rubble, the target can't move or attack, and it can't be engaged or attacked either. Each turn the target spends a standard action to dig itself out, it can make a save. If it succeeds, the effect ends.

9th level: 2d8 x 10 damage

10th level: 2d10 x 10 damage

Vertical Launch (Telekinesis)

If you have a clear path for lift-off, it flies to a far away location in a random direction, landing at the end of the round and taking 25d6 + Strength damage.

> Natural even hit: The target ends up prone and has disadvantage on attack rolls (roll twice and take the lower) until it succeeds at a save or spends a move action standing up.

Any effects of spells, powers or items cast before teleporting are dispelled and no longer function on arrival.

> Augment: 2 PP — You can teleport to the overworld, underworld, or any other plane you have previously visited. Planar travel like this is strenuous, and you and all targets lose a recovery.

Telepathy

Telepathy is the ability to transform your own body, be it for healing or taking other shapes. Its powers are based on Charisma. Telepathy is a strong information-gathering tool, as you can peer into minds directly. Offensively it has ways to deal psychic damage. It may not deal the most damage, but many enemies are weak on their mental defense, and telepathic attacks can often distract or even stun opponents.

Depending on your rank in this discipline, you gain the benefits as per the table below:

| Telepathy | Initiate | Adept | Master |
|---|---|---|---|
| Telepathy Powers (choose) | 1 | 2 | 3 |
| Bonus Powers | Enhanced Empathy, Missive | As initiate | As initiate |
| Benefits | Access to Telepathy powers | As initiate.Choose one augment of one Telepathy power to reduce its cost by 1 (can reduce to zero).Gain resist psychic 14+. | As initiate + adept.Gain a second augment cost reduction.You are immune to fear. |
| Defense bonus | MD +1 | MD +2 | MD +3 |

Champion feat: If you are an initiate, gain the adept benefit. If you are an adept, gain the master benefit.

Telepathy Talents

Emotional Sensitivity

You sense the emotions of nearby people and creatures. For example, you can tell whether a wild animal is truly aggressive or just cornered and scared. You can also tell when someone is nervous, often when they are lying.

In a situation where your emotional awareness is helpful, the GM should decrease the difficulty of skill checks by one step (-5).

Adventurer feat: Once per battle, you can spend a quick action to study the emotional state of a nearby enemy. Gain a 1d6 bonus to your next attack against the MD of the target.

Champion feat: You can sense the presence and location of nearby and far away creatures by their mental signature. This works in darkness, through walls and so on. It does not work for creatures that have no emotions, such as most constructs.

Empathic Link

You bond with your teammates, maybe a little too closely. Some might consider you intrusive.

During each quick rest, you can choose an ally to gain that ally's kin power until the next quick rest.

Adventurer feat: When making a skill check, you can spend 1 PP to add a nearby ally's background to the roll instead of your own.

Champion feat: When rolling icon relationships, you can spend 1 PP to roll an extra die using an ally's icon relationship. Using a 5 or 6 from the roll always has a twist.

Epic feat: After a quick rest, you can spend 2 PP to gain an ally's talent until the next quick rest.

Fortified Mind

When an attack against your MD would impose a condition, immediately save against it. You also gain a +1 bonus to MD.

Adventurer feat: If you already have resistance against psychic damage, increase it by 2. Otherwise, resist psychic 14+.

Champion feat: You are immune to ongoing psychic damage.

Epic feat: Once per battle, add your Charisma modifier to a save against a condition.

Inner Scream

When you spend power points to manifest a telepathy power, you can choose to lose hit points equal to your level to deal psychic damage to each enemy engaged with you equal to your level multiplied by the PP spent.

Adventurer feat: You can now use this talent with powers of any discipline.

Champion feat: Instead of each enemy engaged with you, you can target a single nearby enemy.

Epic feat: Only lose hit points equal to half your level.

2nd Edition Gamma updates

The 2E version of the psion is a quite substantial rewrite.

- Psychoportation discipline renamed to Telekinesis. Psychometabolism discipline renamed to Somamorphosis.
- Swapped Dexterity and Strength for Telekinesis and Energenesis disciplines.
- Disciplines now work as subclasses, similar to demonologist. Each talent belongs to a discipline, and depending on the number of talents you pick from each discipline, you are either an initiate, adept or master.
- Added a fourth talent slot at 6th level.
- Each discipline has one key ability score as before. However, powers of that discipline now only key off that ability score, and are no longer mixed with Intelligence.
- Power points now regenerate full during a quick rest. Adjusted the total number of PP (you get fewer).
- Removed talents that reduce PP cost for a discipline.
- With each talent pick, you also gain a slot for one power of that discipline. (Overall number of powers is in line with 2E class standard)
- You get two bonus powers with each discipline you unlock: a cantrip-like power and a skill check buff.
- Removed feats from powers — Feats have been baked into powers or replaced by augments.
- Powers now scale each level (instead of every second)
- Some powers swapped levels
- Removed most half damage on miss effects
